Introduction by the Chief Inspector of Criminal Justice in Northern Ireland

I am pleased to present Criminal Justice Inspection Northern Ireland's (CJI's) Business Plan for 2014-15. The Business Plan sets out the new inspections we propose to commence this year as well as our targets for communications and operational activity.

In any one year our inspection activity is made up of two separate elements. There are those inspections commenced in the previous financial year which will be completed in the current year, and those inspections which will commence during 2014-15 but will not be completed until 2015-16.

The topics for inspection were initially subject to external consultation as part of our corporate planning process and a more recent 'stock take' of our proposed inspection agenda. This 'stock take' involved discussions with the Minister of Justice, David Ford MLA; the Attorney General for Northern Ireland, John Larkin QC; the Lord Chief Justice, the Right Honourable Sir Declan Morgan QC; the Chair and Deputy Chair of the Committee for Justice; Political Party Justice spokespersons; the heads of the main justice organisations; representatives from oversight and scrutiny bodies; representatives from voluntary and community sector organisations; and representatives from the academic field.

An important message arising from these consultations was that the core inspection agenda remained solid. There were however a number of useful suggestions made regarding adjustments to the inspection programme. These changes have been reflected in the forthcoming Business Plan. The currency of the inspection programme is assured by including those issues which most concern the public and for the first time, CJI will be conducting two thematic studies to assess the impact of alcohol and drug misuse on the criminal justice system.

The current austerity measures and pressures created by legal aid spending continues to impact on all of the criminal justice agencies and CJI is not immune. We have continued to constantly seek creative and innovative ways of doing as much as possible with diminishing resources. The increased use of our website and the production of e-books continues to be a real success which has helped us meet our budgets, adopt a more environmentally friendly approach to report production and open up new audiences for the work of the Inspectorate. We will, as always, seek to publish our inspection work and ensure that copies are widely distributed to those who require them. We have set a number of targets for the communication work of the Inspectorate.

Finally, the Business Plan covers a number of organisational goals including meeting our statutory responsibilities and the retention of a quality management system underpinning our quality assurance processes. We have also set a number of outcome based targets which will measure the success of inspection recommendations accepted and achieved. I believe the proposed inspection programme meets our business/corporate objectives of promoting efficiency and performance improvement in the justice sector; providing independent assurance on the ways in which the system undertakes its business; providing external scrutiny on the treatment of users of the justice organisations; and a strong basis for partnership working.

As always, I welcome comments from all stakeholders on the work of CJI and the contribution the Inspectorate makes to the development of the justice system in Northern Ireland.

The Government's aims for the criminal justice system

The Department of Justice (DoJ) was set up on 12 April 2010, established by the Department of Justice Act (Northern Ireland) 2010 facilitating the transfer of justice powers to the Northern Ireland Assembly.

The DoJ has a range of devolved policing and justice functions which are set out in the Northern Ireland Act 1998 (Devolution of Policing and Justice Functions) Order 2010. Its role is to support the Minister of Justice to help keep the people of Northern Ireland safe.

Setting out current priorities, the DoJ's Corporate Plan 2012-15 describes the Department's objectives as to support the Minister of Justice in building a fair, just and safer community. To underpin this, the Minister has a number of thematic priorities which encompass the role of the Department. They are:

Safer, Shared Communities - working to help build communities with lower levels of crime and anti-social behaviour, where everyone's rights are respected, including examining the steps that can be taken to address problems at interfaces;

Faster, Fairer Justice - looking at how we ensure that everyone in Northern Ireland has access to justice without undue delay, taking particular account of the needs of victims and witnesses; and Reformed Prisons and Youth Justice System - delivering fundamental reform of the Prison Service, with a professional and well trained workforce; progressing the out-workings of the Youth Justice Review and the Review of Community Sentences.

The Department has lead responsibility for the following Northern Ireland Executive 2011-15 Programme for Government (PfG) commitments:

- to substantially complete the construction of the new Police, Prison and Fire Training College (PfG 53);
- to reduce the level of serious crime (PfG 54 and 55);
- to tackle crime against older and vulnerable people by more effective and appropriate sentences and other measures (PfG 54 and 55);
- to improve community safety by tackling anti-social behaviour (PfG 56 and 68).
- to improve access to justice (PfG 57);
- to actively seek local agreement to reduce the number of 'peace walls' (PfG 56 and 68); and
- to reform and modernise the Prison Service (PfG 69).

The criminal justice system in Northern Ireland is made up of eight main statutory agencies. Together, and along with a number of arms length bodies, these agencies are responsible for ensuring a fair and effective justice system in Northern Ireland and increasing public confidence in that system.

The main statutory organisations are the:

- Northern Ireland Courts and Tribunals Service (NICTS);
- Northern Ireland Prison Service (NIPS);
- Police Service of Northern Ireland (PSNI);
- Probation Board for Northern Ireland (PBNI);
- Public Prosecution Service for Northern Ireland (PPS);
- Youth Justice Agency (YJA);
- Forensic Science Northern Ireland; and
- Department of Justice (DoJ).

The purpose of the criminal justice system in Northern Ireland is to support the administration of justice, to promote confidence in the system and to contribute to the reduction and the fear of crime. The criminal justice system in Northern Ireland aims are to:

- provide a fair and effective criminal justice system for the community;
- work together to help reduce crime and the fear of crime;
- make the criminal justice system as open, inclusive and accessible as possible, and promote confidence in the administration of justice; and
- improve service delivery by enhancing the levels of effectiveness, efficiency and co-operation within the system.

The role of CJI

CJI contributes to the DoJ's aims by improving public confidence in the system as a whole through its programme of independent inspections. It will do so by assisting the criminal justice agencies in Northern Ireland to become more efficient and effective, and by ensuring that they are being fair and equitable in all their policies and operations.

CJI's formal accountability is to the Minister of Justice for Northern Ireland and to the Northern Ireland Assembly.

Resources - finance, staffing and engagement with other Inspectorates

CJI is financed by grant-in-aid from the DoJ for Northern Ireland.
The budget for CJI for 2014-15 is £1.229m.

Budget

A summary of CJI's costs in relation to its budget for 2014-15 is as follows:

	£'s
Capital	£0
Salaries and other staff costs	£884,000
Accommodation and related costs	£76,000
Other costs	£269,000
Total	£1,229,000

Staffing

In addition to the Chief Inspector, CJI comprises the following staff:

- Deputy Chief Inspector and Chief Executive (Accounting Officer);
- Seven Inspectors;
- Business and Communications Manager;
- IT and Security Manager;
- Personal Assistant;
- Business and Communications Support Officer; and
- Business and Administrative Support Officer.

Staffing levels within the Inspectorate are kept under constant review. All of the staff of CJI, including the Chief Inspector and Deputy Chief Inspector, were recruited externally through open competition. Staff are employed on terms and conditions broadly aligned with those of the Northern Ireland Civil Service.

The men and women who work for the Inspectorate are CJI's most valuable asset. The Chief Inspector and Deputy Chief Inspector are committed to providing a harmonious working environment, where individual needs are an organisational priority and where professional and personal self-development is encouraged. All staff members have a part to play in helping set the standards and future direction of the Inspectorate and to this end, general staff meetings are held on a monthly basis.

CJI is committed to developing each member of staff so that all reach their potential. The staff appraisal process is the principle means of identifying appropriate developmental opportunities through training courses, attendance at conferences and seminars, secondment opportunities or participation in joint inspection work.

CJI also makes use of staff seconded from other Inspectorates/criminal justice agencies and oversight bodies, consultants, university researchers/post-graduates and stand-by Inspectors as and when required. Unless there was a sustained and substantial increase in the workload, CJI will aim to cover any increase in demand by calling on these external resources and by reprioritising and rescheduling work.

In order to undertake its business effectively CJI requires a close working relationship with a wide range of stakeholders.

Our inspection process is designed to encourage the full engagement of all inspected organisations and we have underpinned this with signed protocols, which set out a formal structure to our inspection process and the publication of our inspection work. Where appropriate, we will seek to update these working arrangements as required.

The Chief Inspector will continue to pursue new working relationships (including research opportunities and possible secondments) to ensure the inspection process is sensitive to the needs of organisations, while at the same time, providing an impartial and independent view of the work that is undertaken. All inspections are undertaken on a 'no-surprises' basis and we will continue to work with organisations in the development and dissemination of action plans pre and post-publication of inspection reports. Action plans will also be published on the CJI website - www.cjini.org.

In undertaking our inspection work we aim to involve as wide a range of professional skills as is necessary to complete the inspections. In past years, we have benefited greatly from assistance provided by Her Majesty's Inspectorates of Prisons, Constabulary, Crown Prosecution Service, and Probation. We expect these relationships to continue and will seek to work with other justice sector Inspectorates as appropriate. In a local context, we will also work closely with the Education and Training Inspectorate, the Regulation and Quality Improvement Authority and the Northern Ireland Audit Office. Once again, protocols and service level agreements have been raised with the majority of the inspection and regulation bodies to provide a structure to our working relationships. We will continue to use specialist consultants as appropriate for specific pieces of work.

The Chief Inspector will continue to work with all oversight and scrutiny bodies in Northern Ireland who have an interest in the justice system. He will continue to meet with the bodies concerned to help ensure co-ordination and the avoidance of overlap and duplication. CJI will seek to engage with a wide range of bodies including the Equality Commission, the Northern Ireland Human Rights Commission, the Policing Board for Northern Ireland, the Prisoner Ombudsman, the Northern Ireland Ombudsman, the Office of the Police Ombudsman, the Northern Ireland Commissioner for Children and Young People and the Commissioner for Older People. We will also seek to work with organisations within the voluntary and community sector in relation to specific inspection reports and across thematic areas.

The devolution of policing and justice has changed the dynamic of local accountability. The Chief Inspector will continue to brief, as requested, the Minister of Justice, the Attorney General for Northern Ireland, the Northern Ireland Assembly Committee for Justice and the Northern Ireland Policing Board on the findings of individual reports, and on the major themes emerging from the inspection work.

The Chief Inspector will also continue to seek feedback on the work of the Inspectorate from key stakeholders.

Corporate governance and risk management within CJI

Corporate governance has been firmly established within CJI. It includes the system by which the Inspectorate directs and controls its functions and how it relates to its stakeholders. In essence, this influences the way in which CJI manages its business, determines strategy, and develops plans and objectives that are designed to improve performance and public confidence in the criminal justice system.

Inherent and residual risk management is a key element of the CJI corporate governance framework which helps to ensure objectives are more likely to be achieved in a controlled manner.

CJI has in place a risk management policy and risk register which is reviewed four times a year.

CJI's policy is to ensure that effective risk management processes improve the quality of decision making and the ability to deliver. The management team has adopted the Government's recommended approach to risk management which encompasses:

- the objectives of CJI's risk management arrangements;
- compliance with risk management;
- risk management principles;
- the risk management procedures;
- roles and responsibilities; and
- risk appetite.

The management of risk is the responsibility of all staff in the organisation, and the whole team is involved in identifying potential risks to the organisation's ability to deliver its objectives.

The current risk analysis has examined a wide range of possible threats/risks to the Inspectorate. These include:

- failure by CJI to secure accommodation in a timely manner to meet future business need;
- need to manage in-year financial pressures; and
- danger of loss of key skills/knowledge from CJI staff.

These inherent and residual risks have been assessed in terms of the likelihood of occurrence and the possible impact on operations and plans. Control mechanisms have been developed to manage the inherent and residual risks and minimise possible disruption to the Inspectorate's operations.

The main inherent and residual risks in practice at the start of the financial year (shown in more detail in the CJI Risk Register) are seen as:

Legal/Regulatory Risk:	Risk of Fraud.
Operational Risk:	Danger of loss of key skills/knowledge from CJI staff group.
Reputational Risk:	Perceived loss of independence in relation to work of the Inspectorate; CJI produces flawed inspection report/FUR.
Financial/Value for Money Risk:	Need to manage in-year financial pressures.
Change Programmes Risk:	CJI fails to secure accommodation to meet future business need in a timely manner.

In each case, including other less likely but also potentially damaging risks, CJI has developed plans with the participation of all staff, to reduce or negate the impact.

A full breakdown of the risks identified and steps taken to reduce and mitigate the impact of these risks at the start of the financial year can be found by following the link below <http://www.cjini.org/CJNI/files/cd/cdc4fab6-603c-46c9-a413-8e4aa8438001.pdf>.
